

A black and white optical illusion drawing of a road that appears to curve and warp. The road is composed of many parallel lines that converge and diverge in a way that creates a sense of depth and movement. Two small figures are standing on the road, one on the left and one on the right, providing a sense of scale. The overall effect is a distorted perspective that makes the road look like it's bending and twisting.

35 um space

Figure 6

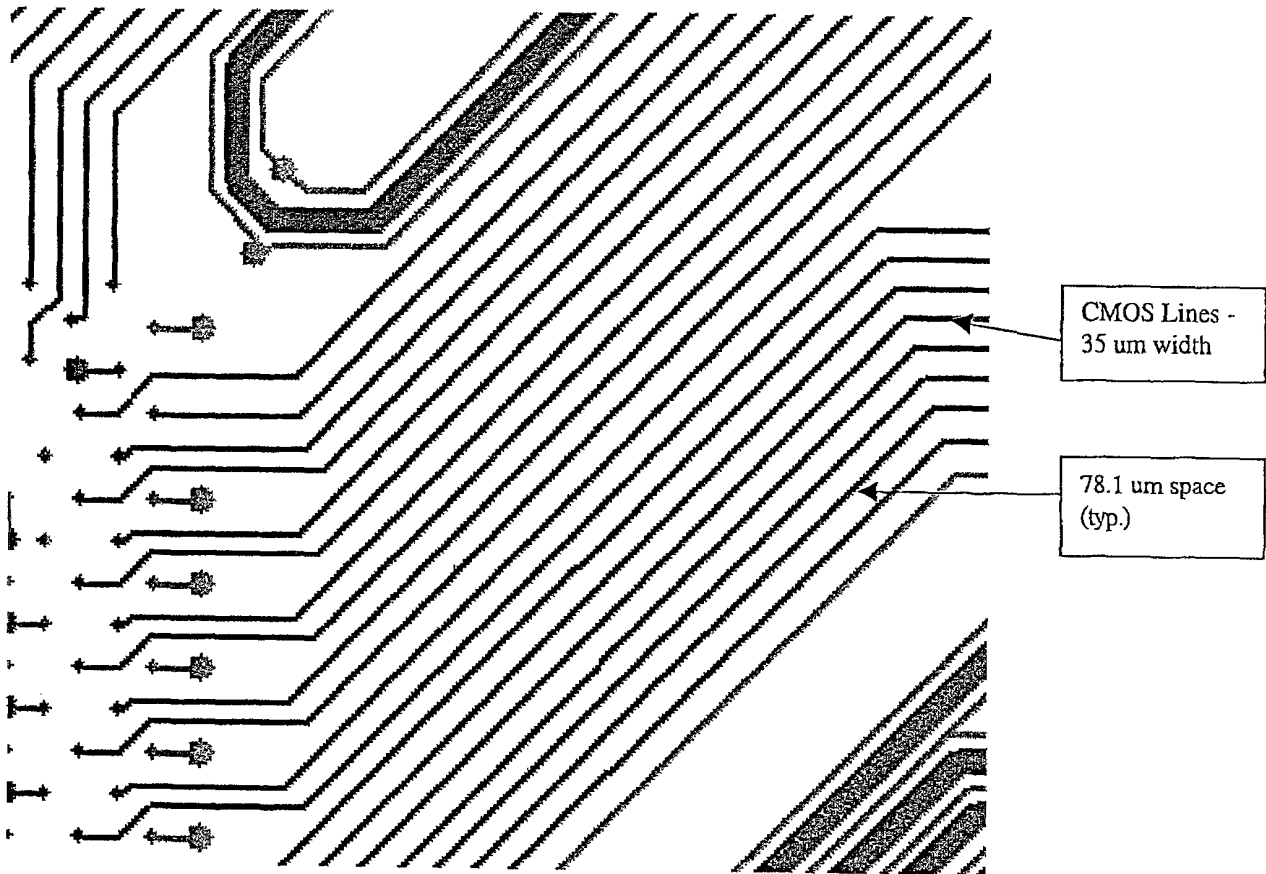

Figure 7

